Class Prophecy

In nineteen hundred seventy four, one day in late November,
I happened back to Star High School, a place I well remember.
As I stood by the door and watched the students arrive,
I wondered about the fate of the Class of Fifty-Five.

After awhile, tired from walking and studying about the past,
I sat down on the steps and sleep claimed me at last.
And unto me a phantom came - a woman grey and old,
She offered, if I cared to hear, our fortunes to unfold.

I asked about Pat Morgan, had his dreams come true,
And learned that peddling pills at his drugstore kept him with plenty to do.
Barbara Allen and Betty Bennett own a restaurant out from Raleigh about a mile,
Their ad is "We serve the best food the best way - country style."

Lts. J. T. Allen and Frank Kivett are serving Uncle Sam at their best,
For they have just completed a successful nuclear weapons test.
Lt. John Mashburn of the Air Force set a new record for jet plane speed,
When an enemy fighter chased him across the Pacific to Fort Meade.

Pat Reynolds, Nancy Needham, and Edna Dawkins are enjoying their nursing careers,
When patients see the friendliness of these girls they quickly forget their fears.
Douglas Kennedy has one of the nicest garages in N. C. with Willis Cagle his head mechanic,
While Harvey Evans, who works for commercial airlines, flies high over the Atlantic.

Melba Hancock, a Britt now is she, has Edna Odom as a neighbor,
Their cute little children provide their hardest labor.
D. J. Cagle, after studying textiles at N. C. State,
Is selling perfumed socks at quite a rate.

Betty Davis works in a hosiery mill; at looping she is skilled,
Grady Dunn sits around in a silk mill; for the position of foreman he has filled.
Allene Davis and Louise Leach are stenographers in a big business office in central Carolina
While James Brewer, a Chief Petty Officer in the Navy, is headed for China.

Betty Sams, still unmarried, from work has retired,
She could have chosen from several suitors but not one she desired.
Wallace Spivey, a Forest Ranger, is protecting North Carolina's trees,
While Bobby Greene, in Agriculture, a brighter future sees.

The phantom then left; once more I felt alive,
I waked to find that it was all a dream about the Class of '55.

Prophet - Bobby Greene

Last Will And Testament

We the class of 1955 of Star High School, State of North Carolina being of sound mind and memory, do hereby make, publish, and declare this to be our last Will and Testament in the manner following:

We the Senior Class leave the School our loyalty, love and appreciation.

To Mr. Fields we give our sincere thanks and appreciation for his never-tiring kindness and help.

To Mrs. Shamburger we leave our deepest affection and gratitude for her un-failing kindness and guidance.

To our Faculty we give and bequeath our deepest appreciation and thanks for their un-failing efforts to help us either as a class or as individuals.

For the rising Seniors we leave a goal-in-life and a desire to pursue it, a plan to attain and a way to do it.

Those flirty ways of Edna Odoms are left to Sylvia Kern, Edna Dawkins and D. J. Cagle leave their positions as "Most Athletic" to Mary Hester Greene and Carlton Scott.

Far fetched dreams are sometimes soothing, so Barbara Allen leaves some of hers in the hands of Mary Anne Strider.

Grady Dunn and Willis Cagle leave their quiet manner to Esther Dunn and Arnold Smith.

J. T. Allen leaves his position as cutest boy to Reece Davis.

Wallace leaves his ability to get along with the girls to Chris Rush.

Nancy Needham leaves her ever lasting talkativeness to Pernelle Kearns.

Pat Reynolds and Bobby Greene leave their position as neatest to Lynda Lomax and Buddy Kern.

John Mashburn leaves his wit to Jasper Hursey and Melvin Jordan to worry with; if they can't handle it William Hancock can.

Clarice Hogan is the receiver of Louise Davis quietness.

That innocent expression used so frequently by Harvey Evans is left to Richard Greene.

James Brewer vacates his bus driver's seat for Robert Freeman to occupy.

Pat Morgan leaves his ability to get along with the teachers to Edward Phillips and Edward King.

Frank Kivett's ability to be late for school is left to Clyde Kern and Jimmy Bodsford.

Douglas Kennedy leaves his hot rod for Jack Smith, Bobby Wright and Floyd Mabe to drive.

Part of the love affairs of Louise Leach are sent to Vonette Hinson.

Melba Hancock leaves her dependability to Kay Brooks.

Allene Davis leaves her well worn vocabulary to Betty Sue Mabe.

Betty Jean Sams leaves her babyish disposition to Gladys Nichols.
